

EDITOR: Dr. Kenneth Blackwell (Hon. Russell Archivist and Adjunct Professor of Philosophy, McMaster University)

TYPESETTING, PROOFREADING & SUBSCRIPTIONS: Arlene Duncan

Russell: the Journal of Bertrand Russell Studies is a scholarly journal devoted to the study of all aspects of Bertrand Russell's thought, as well as his life, times and influence. In addition to publishing original research on Russell and reviews of new books about him, Russell also publishes from time to time new texts and textual studies, bibliographies, discussions, indexes, and archival inventories. Scholarly articles submitted to the journal are refereed anonymously. Russell is not the organ of any association or institution.

EDITORIAL BOARD

- Michael Beaney (Philosophy, Humboldt-Universität zu Berlin and King's College, London, UK)
David Blitz (Philosophy, Central Connecticut State)
Andrew G. Bone (Russell Centre, McMaster)
William Bruneau (Educational Studies, British Columbia)
A. C. Grayling (Philosophy, New College of the Humanities, London)
Nicholas Griffin (Philosophy, McMaster)
Stephen Heathorn (History, McMaster)
Peter Hylton (Philosophy, Illinois at Chicago)
Andrew D. Irvine (Philosophy, British Columbia)
Kevin C. Klement (Philosophy, Massachusetts)
Gülberk Koç Maclean (Philosophy, Mount Royal)
Gregory Landini (Philosophy, Iowa)
Bernard Linsky (Philosophy, Alberta)
Ray Perkins, Jr. (Philosophy, Plymouth State)
Anne-Françoise Schmid (Philosophy, Institut National des Sciences Appliquées de Lyon)
John G. Slater (Philosophy, Toronto)
Carl Spadoni (Russell Centre, McMaster)
Michael D. Stevenson (Russell Centre, McMaster; History, Lakehead)
Sheila Turcon (Russell Centre, McMaster)
Alasdair Urquhart (Philosophy, Toronto)
Russell Wahl (Philosophy, Idaho State)
Lawrence S. Wittner (History, SUNY at Albany)

Russell is © McMaster University, 2022 (ISSN 0036-0163; online, 1913-8032) and is published biannually by The Bertrand Russell Research Centre, Faculty of Humanities, McMaster University. The issue was printed by Media Production Services, McMaster.