

PROJECT MUSE®

Contributors

The Global South, Volume 2, Number 1, Spring 2008, pp. 91-92 (Article)

Published by Indiana University Press

➔ For additional information about this article

<https://muse.jhu.edu/article/240704>

CONTRIBUTORS

Brinda Bose is a Fellow of the Nehru Memorial Museum and Library, New Delhi. She writes on gender and culture in contemporary South Asia, and has most recently published articles in Index on Censorship, Contemporary Women's Writing, and Seminar. Bose is the editor of Translating Desire: The Politics of Gender and Culture in India (Katha, 2003) and Gender and Censorship (Women Unlimited, 2006), and the co-editor of Interventions: Feminist Dialogues on Third World Literature and Film (Routledge, 1997) and The Phobic and the Erotic: The Politics of Sexualities in Contemporary India (Palgrave Macmillan, 2007).

Purnima Bose is Associate Professor of English and Director of the Cultural Studies Program at Indiana University. Bose is the author of Organizing Empire: Individualism, Collective Agency & India (Duke UP and Zubaan, 2003); and co-editor with Laura E. Lyons of the forthcoming volume Cultural History and the Global Corporation (Indiana UP).

Nandana Dutta is Professor in the Department of English at Gauhati University, Assam. She has published in the areas of literary studies, postcolonial theory, and American literature. Dutta's forthcoming book is entitled Location, Migration, Hybridity: Questions of Identity in Assam (Sage, 2008).

Jayati Gupta is Head of the Department of English at Presidency College, Calcutta and honorary guest faculty at the University of Calcutta. Gupta specializes in 18th-century English Literature and the European Enlightenment, and her research interests include travel writing, translation, and culture studies. Gupta publishes regularly on a wide range of literary topics in national and international academic journals, and has edited student-friendly annotated texts published by Macmillan India in 2002, Pearson Education in 2007, and Anthem Press in 2008.

Alfred J. López is Associate Professor in the Department of English at Purdue University. His most recent book is José Martí and the Future of Cuban Nationalism, published by the University Press of Florida (2006). He is also the author of Posts and Pasts: A Theory of Postcolonialism (2001) and editor of Postcolonial Whiteness: A Critical Reader on Race and Empire (2005), both published by State University of New York Press. López is founding editor of The Global South. His work in progress includes a trade biography of José Martí, and a new project tentatively entitled The (Post)global South.

Ashok K. Mohapatra is Reader in the Department of English at Sambalpur University, Orissa. He has published in the areas of postcolonial literature, literary theory, and cultural studies. Mohapatra's essays have appeared in Journal X: A Journal in Criticism and Culture, Atlantic Literary Review, Postcolonial Text, and Journal of Social Sciences, among others.